Aviation Inventory Resources Moves Into New Facility

For Immediate Release:
December 27, 2014- Alvarado, Texas

Aviation Inventory Resources, Inc. announced today operations have transitioned to their new headquarters complex.

Situated on 70 acres near the Mansfield Industrial Park, the facility now includes a 30,000 s.f. warehouse and an 12,500 s.f. state of the art office building.

“We're tremendously excited to be in the new facility,” said Morgan Whitehead, Vice President of Operations for Aviation Inventory Resources. “We've already more than doubled our warehouse space, and additional construction is planned for next year. Our manufacturing division will relocate to a new facility at the campus in the first quarter of 2015, and construction will begin mid-year on a new 35,000 s.f. building for our FAA/EASA licensed repair station, Aviation Repair Resources. By consolidating our operating units at one location, we will be able to increase the efficiency and speed of support for our customers worldwide.”

When complete, the campus will consist of 5 buildings totaling more than 110,000 square feet.
